

Ike Challenges Demo Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday he is putting the nation's business ahead of election year politics—and he challenged the Democratic Congress to do the same.

Eisenhower spoke at a news conference largely devoted to the brisk sparring between the Republican administration and the congressional majority, each of which is accusing the other of politicking at the postconvention legislative session.

Eisenhower said he will do whatever he can to help his party's candidates—Richard M. Nixon for president and Henry Cabot Lodge for vice president—but "this doesn't mean that I possibly should be out on hustings and making partisan speeches. I've got a lot of other responsibilities."

Anyway, the vacation-tanned President said with a grin: "I think these two fellows can take care of themselves pretty well and I think they are tops."

Eisenhower twice used the word "silly" as he talked about his relations with the Congress now in hurried session with major figures of the presidential campaign confronting each other in the Senate.

Simple Actions

"We cannot just simply say that politicking is more important than the nation's business," he said. "I think all this talk about Congress having to take weeks and months and months to get simple actions carried out and accomplished is a little bit silly."

Some Democrats have said the legislative recommendations Eisenhower sent the heavily Democratic Congress were designed more to put Democrats on the spot than to get new laws on the books.

But the President said, "All this talk about the starting a bunch of new programs is just a little bit silly. Go back and look at what I have been recommending, not only during the months past, but for years in some instances."

He said it would be completely inconsistent not to keep recommending such things as his proposal for strengthening civil rights laws and for the kind of assistance he considers appropriate to economically hard-hit areas.

Going To The People

When he meets soon with the congressional leaders of both parties, Eisenhower said, he will talk about the international developments that have inspired some changes in his program, but "I am not going to address myself to the business of lecturing them how they should carry out their own duties, and to perform in conformity with their own consciences."

What about going over the head of Congress to the people? He was asked.

"Well, possibly I'm doing it right now," he said and joined in the laugh.

At one point the President interrupted a questioner to retort to the charge by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, that Eisenhower is keeping frozen $21 million dollars in defense funds already voted by Congress.

"I know of no reason for anyone to say that I have decided not to spend this money," he said. And he went on to contend that it is impossible to adjust in a few weeks to the reshuffling of his budget by Congress. He said Congress took out 14 billion dollars and put back $1,100,000,000 for other purposes.

Once again talking down predictions of a business downturn, he cited statistics of personal income and retail sales to support his contention that the economy certainly shows no signs of recession or depression.

He said the possibility of his having a personal talk with Nikita Khrushchev, if the Soviet Premier comes to the United Nations, has seemed "so remote that I haven't given it a thought." But Eisenhower said, "If I were to come to the conclusion that it was useful for me to see him, why, I would of course invite him to come down if he so chose."

In similar vein, he said, "by no means would I dispar my own going personally to a U.N. session on disarmament 'if I thought it were necessary.' Khrushchev has spoken of the possibility of heading a Soviet delegation to such a session."

Eisenhower said a number of occasions to say in effect that he is not tailoring the final months of his administration to any political needs of Nixon's campaign—but also that he and the man he wants to be his successor are in agreement. "With the exception of minute detail," was the way he put it in one reply.

Reds Expel American Air Attache

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Wednesday accused U.S. air attaché Col. Edwin M. Kirtson of organizing a spy apparatus and conducting himself in a manner offensive to Soviet citizens. They ordered him out of the Soviet Union.

"It's a surprise to me," said Kirtson, a husky, 6-foot-5 career officer from Palo Alto, Calif. "I tried to conduct myself properly."

His assistant, Capt. Irving T. McDonald Jr., of Provincetown, Mass., drew a warning against similar activities, but was not ordered to leave.

The charges against both were rejected by the American charge d'affaires, Edward L. Freers. McDonald, who was awarded

Senate Okays Treaty For Antarctica

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate ratified Wednesday a history-making treaty with the Soviet Union and 10 other nations dedicating the vast continent of Antarctica to peaceful, scientific exploration.

The vote to ratify, 66-21, overrode a fervent protest from Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee that the treaty posed "a grave and direct" threat to U.S. security.

The tally was eight votes more than the two-thirds majority required for treaty ratification. Earlier Wednesday a test vote fell two short of the two-thirds margin.

The treaty commits its signatories—the United States, the United Kingdom, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa and the Soviet Union—to peaceful pursuits in the ice-capped continent lying around the South Pole.

Bans Military Activities

It forbids the use of the antarctic for military activities of any kind, and bans nuclear explosions and the dumping of radioactive waste pending the conclusion of international agreements on nuclear uses.

In urging ratification of the treaty—which the United States initiated—President Eisenhower called it "an inspiring example of what can be accomplished by international cooperation in the field of science and in the pursuit of peace."

In this he had the backing of Vice President Nixon, Republican choice for President.

He was supported in the Senate by Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), the Democratic presidential nominee; Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), the majority leader and Kennedy's vice-presidential running mate, and Henry M. Jackson (Wash.) Democratic national chairman.

Mae Murray In Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mae Murray—former leading lady of the silent screen—was found unconscious in her apartment Wednesday and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman said she probably had a stroke. He said her condition was "good."

Aide Denies Premier Hit

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Anti-government rioting broke out in the Negro heart of this capital city Wednesday and rocks were thrown at the car of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

An aide said Lumumba was not injured—as had been reported in Belgian radio broadcasts.

The aide denied reports that one hurled stone had hit Lumumba in the face.

"The premier is safe and sound, the aide said.

During the rioting Congolese police fired over the heads of surging mobs. The violence was brought under control by the police, showing fixed bayonets, and troops.

Late in the evening the Lumumba government announced: "No one was killed and peace was restored. A few persons were reported injured."

President May Take Part In Arms Debate At U. N.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held open Wednesday the possibility that he might join in a forthcoming United Nations debate on disarmament, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been talking of heading the Soviet delegation.

Main Voting Issues Listed By Governor

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. David L. Lawrence Wednesday listed domestic economy and national security as the two issues expected to play pivotal roles in the Nov. 8 election.

Lawrence said the domestic economy issue would include Republican and Democratic views of its growth "and the question of whether we are meeting our public needs in education, public health, transportation, conservation, research and unemployment, especially in the depressed areas—of which Pennsylvania has more than its share."

The governor said the other major issue would be "the multi-pronged area of our national security and its effect upon our prestige abroad."

Besides the two major issues, Lawrence listed civil rights, urban renewal and the farm program as issues that could have a decisive effect on the outcome of the election.

Asks More Money

SPRING CITY, Pa. (AP)—Gov. David L. Lawrence said Wednesday he will ask the Legislature for more money for Pennsylvania's state hospitals.

GOP Tries New Approach

Presses Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators bounced back from one defeat and started out in a new direction Wednesday in an effort to get action on civil rights legislation.

Twelve of them, led by Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, introduced a bill to carry out the platform pledges on civil rights made at the Republican National Convention in Chicago last month.

Javits said they hadn't settled on their follow-up strategy but told newsmen one possibility was offering parts of the bill as riders to other measures that Democratic leaders plan to call up for action.

He specifically mentioned a bill to boost the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour and to extend the coverage to some three to five million additional workers as one on which an effort might be made to hook a civil rights rider.

The chief sponsor of the minimum wage measure is Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Kennedy accused the Republicans Tuesday after their first abortive attempt to force action on civil rights at the present wind-up session of Congress, of trying to block passage of the minimum wage bill, medical care for the aged, and other welfare measures.

The Democrats, despite their North-South split over the politically explosive issue, voted almost solidly to table and thus kill a two-point civil rights bill offered

Seek Action On Citizen Complaints

EAST Stroudsburg Municipal Authority last night voted to withhold $72,300.44 in payments to its consulting engineers and the contractor on its sewer work until action is taken to clear up citizens' complaints.

Included is $62,338.44 payable to Renda, Nenna and Frain, the contractor, and $10,062 due Albright and Friel, Inc., the consulting engineers.

The action was taken at the suggestion of Paul J. Dellaria, who acted as chairman of the meeting in the absence of Dr. R. Frederick Jones.

Residents Protest

It came in advance of a series of protests voiced by 23 to 30 citizens at the session, which was also attended by Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory and members of Borough Council.

Dellaria opened the meeting by telling fellow members of the authority that he was "not satisfied" with the condition of some borough streets which have been dug up during the sewer installation.

"Some of the streets are not in the condition they should be," Dellaria said, citing dust, stones in the streets and humps left by refilling of excavations as examples.

Three representatives of Albright and Friel attended the session to answer questions and to make note of specific complaints presented by citizens.

One of the engineer spokesmen said permanent repaving of dug-up streets is scheduled to start Aug. 22.

A letter from Albright and Friel to Sterling Cramer, borough secretary, was included in the agenda of the meeting, but was not read. Had it been, it might have forestalled some of the questions asked by persons attending.

Rig Breaks Down

The letter, written in answer to questions asked by Cramer and Edward C. Hess, borough engineer, explained that completion of work on Hoffman and Green Sts. was delayed by the breakdown of a heavy rig used to excavate rock for sewer lines on the two streets.

Work is expected to resume on Hoffman this week with Green being finished shortly afterwards, the Albright and Friel spokesmen said.

Regarding the sewer line extending along Ridgeway St. from East Stroudsburg State College, Albright and Friel wrote Cramer:

"Until the past few days, your engineers had no knowledge of the location, size, elevation, etc., of the existing sewer line in Ridgeway St., therefore it was considered necessary to provide a separate line to be laid which would serve to take the new line from Broadhead to the interceptor, as well as to feed any homes on Ridgeway not previously serviced."

"We will be able to inform within the next week or 10 days exactly what is the right course to take."

On the subject of dust, Albright and Friel wrote:

"We have informed the contractor of the authority's offer to supply an oil-spreading service over the completed pipe trenches and we have outlined the conditions under which this offer is made. Mr. Renda, the senior partner, will make their decision (the contractor's) upon his return from the Midwest shortly."

College Sewer Line

The authority also directed its solicitor, C. R. Bensinger Jr., to write the State Dept. of Property and Supplies and Dept. of Public Instruction to find out whether the college or the state plans to turn the ESSC sewer line over to the authority.

Among complaints voiced by citizens during the meeting were poor repairs or no repairs to streets which were opened for sewer installation; carelessness of employees of the contractor in infringing on private property, particularly yards; lack of tamping when dirt is replaced on some streets; frequent breakdowns of equipment, which delay the project, and arrogance on the part of some employees of the contractor.

AF Scores Two Space Successes

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The satellite Discoverer XIII was fired through a fog bank into polar orbit Wednesday.

This, said Discoverer project officer Lee Battle means achievement of near all-weather launch capability at this West Coast space-training base.

Scientists, hoping 13 will be their lucky number in the jinxed series, sent Wednesday's Discoverer aloft with a jinx buster in its nose—a package of instruments they hope will tell what happened if something goes wrong.

Seek Capsule Recovery

The Air Force will try Thursday to break the jinx: failure to achieve the series' much-publicized objective, recovery of a space capsule from orbit.

A recovery is deemed vital as it is expected to demonstrate a technique by which men can be safely returned from space.

The Air Force announced three hours after launch that the moonlet was whirling the globe once every 94 minutes, with a high point of 436 miles and a low of 161.

Plans call for the satellite—the entire second-stage rocket—to eject a 300-pound capsule over Alaska Waters Thursday. It should fall near Hawaii, where planes will try to snag the capsule's parachute.

Ships will hunt it if planes fail.

Rockets Hit Target

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force for the first time successfully launched an operational prototype of the intercontinental range titan missile Wednesday. The powerful rocket smashed a target zone 5,000 miles away.

The 98-foot, two-stage missile, powered by a new set of engines, flew a true course to the bulls-eye off the South Atlantic island of Ascension, covering the distance in about 25 minutes. Two previous attempts to fire this advanced Titan model failed.

The Air Force reported the Marlin-made missile, potentially America's most deadly military rocket, achieved all test flight objectives.

Fire Damages Building At Frisbie Co.

SIXTY firemen and three times as many spectators flocked to lower Main St. last night as the rear of a building of the Frisbie Lumber Co. flared in flames.

Ernest Transue, who lives at 343 Main St., saw flames leaping above the storage and work building and called in the alarm at 8:59 p.m.

Six pieces of equipment from the Stroudsburg Fire Department rolled out and were positioned from Main St. down the alley to the burning building, located at the rear of 355 Main.

The loading dock at the rear of the structure was ablaze, and stacks of large plywood sheets were starting to burn. The fire damaged the rear of the roof extensively.

The sliding door into the workshop burned, but firemen arrived in time to save the main shop and the woodworking machines from harm.

Fire Chief Robert Phillips estimated that 60 men battled the fire, but had no immediate estimate on the damage to the loading dock or plywood.

The fire broke out in a room used to store lumber. The fire started in a room used to store lumber. The fire started in a room used to store lumber.

Steelworkers Idled By Strike

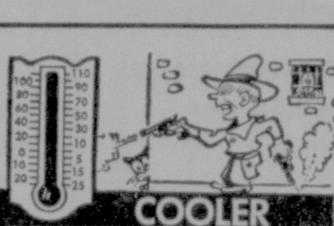

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Some 12,000 steelworkers at the sprawling Pittsburgh Works of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. were idled Wednesday by a strike of 300 trainmen against the Monongahela Connecting Railroad.

The strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, walked off their jobs at 7 a.m. in a contract dispute.

Textile Plant Helps Situation
DURYEA, Pa. (AP)—A new textile plant opened here yesterday but that wasn't the news in so far as this economically distressed area was concerned.

The important factor was that the plant will employ 100 men and only two women. The women will work in the office.

This contrasts with the employment pattern of recent years in which textile factories employed a far greater number of women than men.

The new plant is a 34,000 square foot affair financed by the community. The building, not quite finished, will cost more than $200,000. Equipment worth half a million dollars is being installed.

A pioneer textile printing firm, the T. P. Printing Co. will be engaged chiefly in printing finished goods by flocking, stencil lacquer and roller printing. It formerly was in Paterson, N.J.

OAS Fights Back At Cuba
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States, apparently stiffening its attitude toward Cuba, voted 20-1 yesterday to have its foreign ministers review subversive activities within the hemisphere.

The action came as the United States denounced a "calculated plan" Cuba's seizure of remnants of what once amounted to nearly a billion dollars in U. S. investments in Cuba.

Only Cuba raised substantial objections as the 21-nation OAS Council approved a four-point agenda for the ministerial conference opening Aug. 16 in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Similarly, the council rejected by the 20-1 margin an alternative agenda proposed by Cuba. Cuba asked the ministers to plan a joint defense against alleged U. S. military and economic aggression.

Monroe Soldiers Go Through Drills

MONROE County members of "B" Troop, 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron, 9th Cavalry, training at Fort Knox, Ky., started off the week with basic driving, rifle firing and mortar training. Lt. Ralph W. Wagner reported last night.

Members of the tank section attended classes in stopping and starting of the vehicles; maintenance and characteristics of the vehicle and the section also did some driving on flat terrain.

Members of the tank section are Sgt. Nelson Rogers, Stroudsburg RD 1; Sgt. James Flowers, Mt. Pocono; Sgt. Earl Burch, East Stroudsburg; Sgt. Charles Schaller, East Stroudsburg; and Sgt. Anthony Falcone, Bangor.

On the range for the first day, for "snapping in," was Sgt. James Wagner, Cpl. Harderstone and PFC Raymond Miller all of Monroe County.

The support squad started with the mortar training and will end up the three day course with live firing on the mortar range.

Those taking part in the mortar classes are Sgt. Paul Anderson, Sp4 George Muth and PFC Glen A. Shupp.

Tomorrow's training will be rough terrain driving for the tank squad, advance marksmanship for the rifle squad, and continued mortar gunnery for the support squad.

Illegitimate Births On Decline

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG — Illegitimate births in Monroe County were on the decline during the past year in comparison with the preceding year, records of the State Department of Health showed today.

A check by the Record with the department on its recently completed statistical survey for the state as a whole disclosed the fact that illegitimate births in the county last year numbered 23 as compared with 31 such births recorded in the previous year.

2.8 Per Cent
 Percentage-wise this means that 2.8 per cent of the 1955 Monroe County births were illegitimate, which as a point of interest compares with the state-wide illegitimacy birth rate of 4.3 per cent.

The percentage figure for the past year for Monroe County was down—from 3.8 per cent illegitimacy in 1954, according to records of the Department of Health.

Reckless Spending

There is no reason to believe President Eisenhower will not carry out his pledge to veto all "reckless spending schemes" which the post-convention of Congress might send to his desk.

This is a presidential and congressional election year, to be sure, and the President cannot anticipate the same respectful treatment from Congress that he received during his first seven and one-half years in office.

Since entering the White House early in 1953, only two of his vetoes have been overridden by a two-thirds vote of both the House and the Senate.

Regardless of any possible shift in Congressional sentiment toward the President, the high regard the public in general holds for Mr. Eisenhower will no doubt serve to temper the thinking of legislators as they pass on controversial bills and strengthen his efforts to block all attempts to buy votes by spending schemes and other undesirable legislative proposals.

Mr. Eisenhower, in his message to Congress this week, asserted that the four billion dollar surplus he had predicted for the current fiscal year—ending next June 30—was threatened by "the spending programs enacted and pending, coupled with the failure of Congress to enact proposed new revenue measures."

"I shall not," he pledged, abdicate my responsibility to use the executive power to help keep the nation's economy strong and sound while we carry forward our urgent work at home and in the world.

"This means that I shall not be a party to reckless spending schemes which would increase the burden of debt of our grandchildren, by resuming, in prosperous times, the practice of deficit financing. I shall not fail to resist inflationary pressures by whatever means are available to me."

Among the legislative issues currently in the Washington spotlight are medical care for the aged, federal subsidies for education, an increase in the $1 an hour minimum wage and changes in the labor laws.

The administration has advocated steps on all these subjects, but they do not go as far as the Democratic measures awaiting action. Hence, a series of major battles is shaping up that will have immediate repercussions in the November elections.

More important, we think, is the impact these results will have on our pocketbooks in the years to come. All of us who think that taxes already are too high are hoping that Mr. Eisenhower's wishes will prevail over all "reckless spending schemes" advocated by the so-called "liberals" in Congress.

Global Economics

Last year Iron Curtain countries produced nearly 242,000 passenger automobiles. The United States turned out more than 6,000,000. Suppose this year the big Red team takes a great leap forward and ups production to 300,000 while we inch ahead and turn out 6,100,000.

Then we'll be told that their automobile production growth rate is a magnificent 24 per cent, while ours is a disgraceful 1.6. We'll be warned to watch our rear bumpers lest we get run over.

Yet somehow we'll still have 20 shiny new automobiles for every new one of theirs. It's a puzzlement.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Curious Propaganda

The mail daily brings letters telling the identical tale, namely, that "Nelson Rockefeller's billions . . . have infiltrated both parties," and that it does not matter for which candidate one votes. Rockefeller will control him.

That this is nonsense does not matter. Nonsense makes votes too. The assumption of these letter-writers is that Nelson Rockefeller is a Socialist and that therefore John Kennedy and Richard Nixon are controlled by Socialists.

These letter-writers give Nelson Rockefeller too much credit; acknowledge too great a political and social knowledge; and they down-grade both Kennedy and Nixon beneath their deserts.

The letters and post-cards, often anonymous, obviously are inspired because the wording is too generally identical.

The tie-up with Nixon is based upon the single fact that Charles Percy, who was chairman of the Republican Platform Committee also served on a special studies project financed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

Charles Percy is a young man who is president of Bell and Howell Co. which manufactures motion picture and television equipment.

He has been trying to "liberalize" the Republican Party, came up with a platform which was satisfactory to nobody and which had to be revised. The likelihood is that Charles Percy has performed his deed, has had his day.

It is utter nonsense to attempt to establish on such flimsy data that Nelson Rockefeller has purchased the American government should Nixon be elected.

Now the same circulars discover that Nelson Rockefeller has also come into control of the Democratic Party because Chester Bowles, chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee, "is an intimate friend of Nelson Rockefeller. Further, he is also a member of the staff of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund."

Of course, one can put this and that together and reach any kind of a conclusion, or it can be done the other way around, namely, the conclusion can be stated and a fact here and there can be found to seem to support it.

As a matter of fact, many persons think by that process and wonder why they get into so much trouble.

It will be found as the months move closer to Election day that both Richard Nixon and John Kennedy are more independent in their attitudes than most of the critics of either of them are. These are not second rate men.

Concerning Kennedy, the anti-Catholic mail is increasing in volume. The mail now takes a new mood — and too much of it is identical to be interesting.

It says, in effect, "I do not object to Kennedy. I do not object to Catholics, Protestants, Jews, or anybody else. But I don't want the Pope to rule the United States. He is a foreigner."

I must have received perhaps 25 or 30 copies of a single pamphlet on this subject. The distribution must be very widespread. It is issued by a body of former Catholics.

The pamphlet includes quotations from Catholic publications and documents from which the conclusion is to be drawn that if John Kennedy is elected President he will telephone to the Vatican every day to get his orders from Pope John XXIII. A society of former priests is very active in this respect.

Both de Gaulle and Adenauer are Catholics and it is not to be presumed that either of them ask the Pope what to do about this or that.

It is to be hoped that this campaign will be fought out on issues more fundamental than that Rockefeller purchased both parties or that Kennedy is a Catholic.

This country is about to face a critical period which could end in war. Four capable men are running for the Presidency and the Vice Presidency. All four are fit to hold the primary office in this country.

It will be difficult to make a choice. The more conservative will find in Nixon and Lodge a better prospect; the more liberal will turn to Kennedy and Johnson. There will be much crossing of party lines; there will be less abstaining from voting than is usual.

There is a possibility of a real debate, particularly on the foreign policy. No fundamental debate has taken place in this country since 1932 — surely not concerning the foreign policy.

Moreover, it is also now certain that the candidates will face each other on television. It is a time for serious thought, not for small prejudices and silly propaganda.

Q. I understand that special restorative training is available under the War Orphans Education program to handicapped young men and women in need of it. Does this restorative training include medical care?

A. No. Special restorative training does not include medical care. It does include special courses — such as braille reading, language retraining and the like — designed to help a person overcome his handicap so that eventually he can take regular training at school.

The Pennsylvania Story

State Deficit

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Although 1960 is a presidential election year, Democratic leaders in Pennsylvania are counting on statewide rather than national issues to swing the Keystone State into their column this Fall.

In fact, as battle lines shape up for the November campaign it is becoming increasingly evident that a curious pot-pourri of strategies appear to be in the offing from both Democrats and Republicans. For example, both are planning to point to the record of the tedious and drawn out 1959 and 1960 sessions of the Legislature for a series of confusing and conflicting claims and counter-claims which at best will be difficult if not impossible to untangle!

Destined to be one of the sharpest points of controversy will be the subject of taxation and fiscal affairs — a subject which already threatens to throw the 1961 Legislature into a stalemate, although the session does not get under way until January.

The inadequacy of Pennsylvania's present tax structure — if spending continues at its present rate, and there is little reason to doubt that it will not — is pointed up almost daily as indications mount that the end of the biennium May 31 will find the Keystone State facing another groaning deficit.

In the opinion of fiscal experts both in and out of the administration, Pennsylvania's present tax structure — pyramided on a four percent sales tax base — has virtually reached its point of maximum expansion. In the absence of economizing, additional monies are needed — to be raised only by new rather than expanded existing taxes.

This in itself raises one of the most conflicting points to be offered by Democratic and Republican candidates this Fall — particularly those seeking legislative seats.

Anti-administration Republicans are determined to point loudly and clearly to the "economies" their lawmakers — in control of the Senate — forced on the Democratic Lawrence Administration, cutting administration budgetary requests by some $40 million.

Administration Democrats on the other hand will point to these same economies as indicative of the "curtailing" of what administration aides refer to as "essential public services."

Die-hards in both political camps already have hit the campaign trail on this point — Republicans for example pointing to the "austerity" program forced upon the Lawrence Administration, while donkey riders hammer home the curtailing of services (such as the highway program which they claim has been strangled by refusal of the GOP legislative bloc to go along with the cent-a-gallon increase in Pennsylvania's gasoline tax).

Thus the campaign this Fall bogs down on somewhat of a paradox with strategists for both sides using the common fiscal affairs theme — but each with a different viewpoint.

In all of this there is seemingly another paradox. It doesn't take too much to recall that during the 1954 gubernatorial campaign when Democrats quite definitely were the "outs", one of their hottest themes at that time revolved around the vast that expenditures were plainly too heavy on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill; that a saving of "at least $100 million" could be realized if only the electorate would usher donkey riders into the gubernatorial sanctum atop Capitol Hill.

Well, Pennsylvania's electorate did just that in 1954, but instead of any $100 million economy, Pennsylvania today under the Democratic Lawrence Administration is operating on a near $3 billion budget — biggest yet produced!

The record should be well parolled by the time the campaign is over!

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The old gray mare ain't what she used to be — so far as the Democratic National Committee is concerned.

In the few weeks since the Los Angeles convention, it's become a very different critter.

Instead of plodding along with an occasional disruptive burp under controversial former Chairman Paul Butler, the Democratic headquarters now operates at a brisk and purposeful trot in obvious preparation for a greatly increased tempo when the big election battle gets underway next month.

Unlike Butler and his dawdling lieutenants, who functioned with little zest and drive, the new party chiefs know exactly what they want to do, how to do it, and are wasting no time and effort in tackling the job. All of them work long hours, at high speed, and with boundless enthusiasm and fervor.

This may be due to their youth.

They are all under 50; with a number in their 30s. The oldest, 49, is humorously referred to as the "old man."

Sen. Kennedy is in complete control of the National Committee and its machinery. It is proceeding according to his plans, his policies, his tempo, and with his hand-picked assistants in all the key positions.

This far-reaching transformation has been instituted in less than a month.

It's still incomplete. Other new faces are being brought in every week. This will probably go on throughout the campaign as need arises. Whatever else it is, the Kennedy organization is not static.

It moves, and doesn't spare the horses in doing so. That's the way it performed in the hectic pre-convention struggle, at Los Angeles, and since then is speedily and decisively taking over the Democratic National Committee apparatus. Jack is definitely in the saddle, and his boys are just as definitely running the show.

Most of the old National Committee staff has been retained, but in subordinate positions. Former high officials no longer give orders, they take them. Also, they execute them in a far more snappy and business-like manner.

They're really earning their pay now.

Who's Who — Sen. Henry Jackson, 48, whom Kennedy personally picked as national chairman, heads the list of this new high-powered outfit. Other key figures are:

Robert (Bobby) Kennedy, 34, his 43-year-old brother's personal campaign manager, as he has been throughout his presidential drive.

Theodore Sorensen, 33-year-old brilliant Nebraska lawyer, who is the candidate's administrative assistant and one of his closest lieutenants.

John Salter, 48 but looks 30 years younger, who is Jackson's administrative assistant. A canny, long experienced and widely informed politician, Salter directed all of Jackson's campaigns, and was quietly very active in Kennedy's nomination fight.

Lawrence O'Brien, 43, a close assistant of Kennedy in all his political campaigns, going back to his first race for a House seat. Crew-cut Massachusetts born and reared O'Brien is in charge of organizing.

Mike Feldman, 44, new research chief. He is particularly fitted for this, as he has long been legislative expert on Kennedy's senatorial staff.

Roger Tubby, 49, press director. An upstate New York newspaper publisher, Tubby was press secretary to President Truman, and Adlai Stevenson in his 1956 campaign.

Dan Martin, 43, in charge of fund raising. A Los Angeles businessman, Martin is the son of a former Washington state governor and an old Jackson friend and supporter.

Byron (Whizzer) White, 43, head of the Citizens for Kennedy set-up and active in the crucial voters' registration drive. A one-time All-American football star, White served with Kennedy in the Navy.

Ralph Dungan, 37, in charge of "special assignments." Dungan is a former staff member of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, where his outstanding work caught the attention of the Kennedy brothers.

Jerry Hoeck, 36-year-old Seattle advertising man, who will handle radio and television matters.

Kenneth O'Donnell, 36, who is arranging Kennedy's itineraries, by plane, train and auto. He will work closely with James Rowe, one-time New Deal brain-truster, who is doing the same for Kennedy's running mate, Senator Lyndon Johnson.

Stephen Smith, 32, Kennedy's brother-in-law, who will act as campaign treasurer.

Politically — From the way Mrs. Perle Mesta, the "hostess with the mostest," is talking, she may be getting ready to desert the Democrats for the Nixon-Lodge ticket. Originally an ardent Republican, Mrs. Mesta "defected" to the Democrats in the Truman regime, and wound up as ambassador to Luxembourg.

But since the two national conventions, she has been dropping broad hints that she is "very fond of Dick and Cabot." Also, her nephew, William Tyson, is one of four Republican candidates for Nevada's lone House seat.

Also seeking that nomination is former Sen. George (Molly) Malone, who is explaining his comeback effort. "A President in the United States once served in the House after leaving the White House, so I guess I can do that after serving in the Senate."

Rep. William Green, Philadelphia Democratic chairman, made such an effective talk in that city, of the series Bobby Kennedy held across the country, that he asked Green to accompany him to all the others. Green was equally successful at these meetings in arousing the support of local and state leaders for high powered registration drives in their areas.

Pollen Count

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.

We can predict the weather with a pretty good degree of accuracy. But we can't predict the pollen count.

And for several million persons suffering from hay fever or asthma, the pollen count is probably a lot more important than the temperature these days.

Not Accurate

The pollen count which is printed in newspapers every day during the pollen season is not the accurate guide we would like to have.

The count for ragweed is made with the aid of a vase-line-coated glass slide which is placed in an unprotected area. These slides are collected at a specific time each day and a microscopic examination determines the number of ragweed pollen grains present.

This count is probably fairly accurate, but it tells only what occurred yesterday, not what will occur today or tomorrow. It does, however, indicate what might occur today or tomorrow.

For example, a pollen count of, say, between 25 and 30 grains can mean considerable trouble for asthma and hay fever victims.

Record High

In my home state of Illinois, a couple of years ago the count rose to a record 1,500 in one area.

Now when the count is high one day, it does indicate that it will probably be high enough to cause difficulty the following day.

However, various elements such as rain and wind direction and velocity enter into the picture.

Social Security Guide

Q. My husband draws a benefit check of $98.00 per month. He works for a drugstore for $100 per month. In July he served as a juror and received $40 for his services. Will he be entitled to all of his checks for the year?

A. Yes. His services as a juror will not be counted in determining his total earnings for the year.

Q. I have been drawing benefits for the past 8 months of this year. I work in a restaurant for $100 per month cash wages. My employer gives me two meals a day. He values these meals at 75c per meal. I now hear that the value of these meals must be considered in my total earnings for the year. Is this correct?

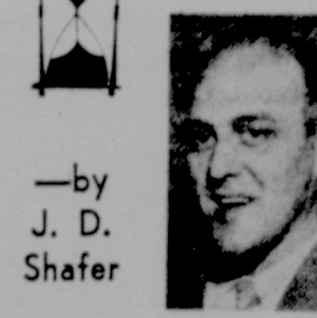

A. Yes. The value of the meals constitutes payment in kind and must be considered in the total earnings for the year. If you continue to work under the same arrangements you will earn over $1200 for the year and will not be due checks for all 12 months of the year.

Nine Answers Are Found For Planned Community

NINE ANSWERS — 2.36 —
(This is the second in a series of articles outlining the reasons for community planning and zoning and the procedures by which they are brought into play. This and the first article were based in part on the publication, "Planning — And Your Community," prepared by the State Bureau of Community Development.)

WHAT CAN be found in a planned community that would be absent in the unplanned community?

At least nine answers to this question are found in the publication "Planning — And Your Community." They are:

A workable land-use pattern for industry, commercial functions, residences, transportation facilities and recreation areas;

A programmed approach to the building of needed community facilities such as parks, schools, water supply and distribution systems, sewage collection treatment plants, airports and public buildings;

The location of these facilities where they are needed, and their construction in size or capacity according to the scale the community will require;

An effective physical separation of functions within the community;

A well designed transportation system, meeting the needs of the pedestrian, of vehicular traffic, and of commercial and industrial transport, and giving consideration to parking and terminal facilities and to public transit;

A proper consideration of the physical appearance of the community;

The arrangement of neighborhoods that are economically efficient, physically attractive and conducive to social well-being.

A sound, substantial economic base that is realistically devised to meet the community's total needs, and lastly,

Maximization of the democratic ideal of local self-government.

Everyone Plans

Who plans a community? Is another question one might ask. In the largest sense, everyone does. Everyone makes plans that will affect the future of the community.

The man who decides to build his new home in a certain part of town;

The industrialist who decides to locate the new factory building on a certain site;

The highway engineer who determines that the road must go in a certain direction;

All these people make plans. But this type of planning, everyone would agree, is certainly not comprehensive planning, and this is not what is generally meant by community planning in the formal sense.

Who, then, are the community planners?

Official responsibility for community planning is placed in the care of a body known as a planning commission, usually consisting of five persons.

Their existence is provided for by state law, and they are given certain official duties to perform as well as the legal powers necessary to carry out their tasks.

The planning commission is appointed by the governing body of the community — county commissioners, borough council or board of township supervisors.

Invariably, the planning commission is a broadly representative group of the most able and civic-minded persons in the community. Besides being a devoted citizen, each member should be broad-minded, tolerant of opposing viewpoints and possess an ability to understand and deal with difficult problems.

Devote Long Hours

What many people do not realize is that each citizen who serves on this unpaid commission must devote long hours to difficult work for which he will receive no tangible reward. An able person, however, will most certainly recognize the tremendous challenge of such work, and the significant opportunity it offers for important community service.

A planning commission is frequently referred to as a staff agency of local government. This means it is an information gathering and advice-giving body.

It cannot pass laws or arbitrarily impose its ideas upon the community. Without the consent of the elected members of the local government — county commissioners, borough councilmen, township supervisors — it is powerless to do more than recommend.

Thus the planning commission operates within the framework of our democratic system of local government. Only those officials elected by the people and responsible to them have the power to make rules and regulations, and all recommendations of the commission must eventually pass to the elected officials for ultimate disposition.

If Merger Goes Through

Expanded Aids To Members Of Motor Club Reviewed

SOME OF the expanded services that will become available to members of the Pocono Mountain Motor Club, if its merger with the Lackawanna Motor Club is approved, were reviewed yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club.

The proposal to create a new organization — to be known as the AAA Motor Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania — was outlined by Allan C. Hunsinger, general manager of the Lackawanna club.

He said the new club would maintain a Pocono field office in Stroudsburg and select a field man from this area to cover the local territory. His work would deal chiefly with emergency road service, traffic and safety, school-boy patrols and the like.

Trip-Tix Service

Local members would also have the advantage of the complete trip-tix travel service maintained by the parent club, as well as the license service and other benefits offered by the motor federation.

The Lackawanna Motor Club at present has a membership of 34,000 in seven counties — Wayne, Wyoming, Susquehanna, Bradford, Sullivan, Lackawanna and part of Pike — and all have representation on the 22-member board of governors.

The Pocono club represents Monroe and the lower part of Pike County and has 3,600 members. If the two clubs merge, the Pocono area will be represented by three members on the board, Hunsinger said. Present plans are to select one member from the Top of the Poconos, one from the Stroudsburg area and one to represent the rural area.

Advisory Capacity

The present board of the Pocono club would continue to serve in an advisory capacity.

Members of both the Pocono and Lackawanna clubs will hold separate meetings Aug. 25 to act on the merger proposal. If approved, the annual dues would be set at $9 a year for full members and $6 for associate members. A full membership in the Pocono club now costs $10.

The creation of a "regional motor club" is being encouraged by both the Pennsylvania Federation and the American Automobile Assn. as part of a program for enhancing the services and benefits for members, which frequently cannot be provided by smaller clubs.

William E. Bright, president of the Lackawanna club board, and L. Reed Grosvenor, safety director, also spoke briefly. Loring Cramer was program chairman.

Pittston Man On Probation

Argo had pleaded guilty. He is a former committeeman of the United Mine Workers union. Sentence was imposed by Judge John W. Murphy of U. S. District Court.

OPEN HOUSE—This stone and frame house belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Sittig, Shawnee-on-Delaware, will be open to the public from 2 to 8 p.m. today in conjunction with a tour of local historic homes, sponsored by the Pocono Art Center. (Les Carlton Photo)

Sitting Home To Be Open To Public

THE stone and frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Sittig, of Shawnee-on-Delaware, will be open to the public today from 2 until 8 p.m.

The home will be open in conjunction with a tour of historic local homes sponsored by the Pocono Art Center.

The stone portion of the Sittig home is one of the oldest buildings in this area, established by the Hollanders. The Sittigs believe it dates back to 1740, and was owned by the DePul family.

On the old map of frontier forts, this property is shown as three buildings.

About 1810, at the time Daniel Stroud was surveying the streets of Stroudsburg, Philip Strawder built the frame house with a loft and barred windows onto the stone portion, using the whole as a store and residence.

The tour will end at Shawnee in the afternoon, and a tour in the reverse order will start from there in the night. Tickets are available at the stone house at Braeside and Brown Sts. in East Stroudsburg.

County 4-H Team Wins Honors In State Contests

A COUNTY 4-H Poultry Judging team placed first in the State Contests. The activities were held this week as part of the 4-H Judging and Demonstration days of the Pennsylvania State University.

The Monroe County team consists of Peter Gerard of Henryville RD 1, Larry Altemose of Kunkletown RD 2, and Kenneth Pearson of Scotrun.

In winning the contest, the team compiled a score of 1491.5 points out of a possible score of 1800. University poultry officials explained that this score was above average for an event of this type.

The contest was divided into three phases, egg grading, candling, and live-bird classes. As a result of placing first in the state contest, the team may represent the Pennsylvania 4-H clubs at the Poultry Exposition at Syracuse, N.Y., on October 2-4.

Five other Pennsylvania counties had winning judging teams in other events. They were Green, Laurence, Lackawanna, York and Tioga.

The county team has been awarded a plaque by the university for one year. At the contest next year, state teams will again compete for the trophy.

Kenneth Pearson established a "high individual" score at the contests. He scored 518.8 out of a possible 600 points. Larry Altemose placed fifth in the Poultry Judging contest with 507 points. Both boys were awarded blue ribbons.

M-E Profits Not Excessive

HARRISBURG (AP)—An investigation of the financial operations of Metropolitan Edison Co., Reading, indicated that the utility was not making excessive profits, the Public Utility Commission reported Wednesday.

The Commission said its analysis showed that the company earned about 6 per cent on its investment for the 12-month period ended March 31.

Other electric utilities under study include Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., Allentown; Philadelphia Electric Co.; Duquesne Light Co., Pittsburgh; West Penn Power Co., Greens-

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—The Knights of Columbus filed a criminal libel charge Wednesday against the Rev. W. L. King, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in nearby Finleyville.

2 Barrett Teachers Resign From Pocono Mt. Jointure

EDWARD Bosman and Bernard Rone, both teachers in the Barrett Township school, have resigned, it was announced last night at a meeting of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Board.

Bosman had submitted a letter earlier in the month requesting an increase in salary. He told the board he had an offer of a better position but would remain if given the increase.

Rone, in his letter or resignation, gave no reason for his action.

In other business, Parker Oil

Company was awarded the oil contract for schools in the district. His price quoted from the bid was 10.99 cents per gallon for oil delivered to Mt. Pocono and Jackson schools. The bid price for Barrett, Coolbaugh and Pocono schools was 9.89 cents per gallon.

Other contracts awarded were Cyphers Electric for work in Jackson Township school at a bid of $324.95; Harry Bisbing for painting in the Jackson school at a bid of $188; Johnson Service Company for repairs to the heating controls in Tohyanna Township school at $585; and Herbert R. Imbt, Inc. for paving the upper side of the playground at $1,344.15.

Replaces Learn

Paul Martin was hired to replace George Learn to teach science in Pocono Township High School at a salary of $4,300.

The board also approved Sept. 1, as the starting date for a salary increase to Lawrence Wile. The new salary is $7,500 per year.

The board deferred action on hiring Frank Litts as custodian for the new school—now under construction—until a report from a committee to be named by the president is presented.

A report was requested to be prepared and ready to be submitted at the next meeting.

Forecast Record Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Administration yesterday forecast record peacetime military spending of at least 41 1/2 billion dollars this year. Even so, there will be a temporary freeze of some 621 million dollars voted by Congress for defense.

The Defense Department made this estimate in spelling out some of the cost of new military preparedness actions stressed by President Eisenhower in his Monday message to Congress.

The Administration intention is to keep a freeze on 621 million dollars of defense funds had been made known earlier in the day by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Almost Unbelievable

Dear Abby: I can't speak for all beauty operators—or "cosmetologists," as I prefer to be called—but for myself, no tips please. I studied hard and long for my diploma and consider myself a professional woman, and a "tip" is an insult to me and to my profession. All I ask is that I make some lady happy and that she return again and again and again.

Very truly yours,
"PROUD"

Dear "Proud": Yours is a very noble sentiment. You must be independently broke.

Dear Abby: We have a nice home in a nice section of town and have lived here for several years. About a year ago a new family moved next door. A man, his wife and three children, ages ranging from 8 to 15. They seem to be very nice and we see them going to church regularly. They're courteous and friendly but we have never been in their home and they have never been in ours.

Last Sunday afternoon I got up on our roof to put a new lead on my TV antenna and to my amazement I saw the whole family sitting on the patio in the nude! There is a six-foot fence around their yard so unless a person was on the roof or a ladder he couldn't see this. Is such a practice legal? We hate to cause any trouble, but suppose a child were to climb the fence and see such a sight?

SHOCKED

Dear Shocked: A lawyer can tell you what's "legal." What people do quietly in the privacy of their own homes (whether you approve or not) is their own business.

Dear Abby: I have a problem which I hope you won't think is silly. I asked my mother about it and she laughed at me.

I hate to eat with my father. When he swallows he makes a big, gulping noise that goes through me like chalk scraping on a blackboard or somebody pinching a balloon. I want to hit somebody when I hear it. Do you understand what I mean, Abby?

I make up excuses to get out of eating with him. Like saying I have to eat early because I am getting a hunger headache. Or I say I'm not hungry at mealtime and will eat later.

Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist because I am not crazy. I am 16.

NOT CRAZY

Dear Not Crazy: Many people have reactions they don't understand, and you apparently are one of them. You don't have to be "crazy" to consult a psychiatrist. Many who have sought to understand their fears, frustrations and perplexing reactions have gained that insight with professional help. But, first, talk to your mother again. It's no laughing matter.

Confidential To "Ollie": Put your cards on the table and quit trying to drink yourself under it.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

Cleared Of Fraudulent Charges

MONAS Fetterman, about 33, was cleared in Monroe County Court Tuesday of charges of fraudulent conversion of money brought by Roger Tambella, former operator of the Jolly Roger, Canadensis night club.

Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh asked, and Judge Fred W. Davis granted, permission to enter a no-bis prosequi in the case.

Indicted By Grand Jury

In his request, Marsh wrote: "The parties have informed your petitioner that they have come to an understanding of their partnership and that they feel that with their present understanding, no criminal acts have been committed."

Fetterman was indicted on the charge by a grand jury on Sept. 16, 1959.

In another action involving the Jolly Roger, Murry Mackson, ancillary receiver of the estate of Italo Tambella, bankrupt, of Palmerton, sold the Barrett Township lot which includes the former night club for $22,000 to Vacationland Realty Co., Inc., Mountainhome. The deed was filed in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder. The sale price includes other buildings on the property.

Gap Landmark Now Thing Of Past

THE OLD Brodhead cottage, later Courtney Lodge and then the Dude Ranch, has been torn down by the Schlusser Co. of Scranton. It belonged to the Ronson Corporation and several years ago when gas tanks stored there exploded.

The Delaware Water Gap borough council asked Ronson to board the structure up as a menace to safety, and when wrecking started, persons carried off any thing of value.

Brodhead Family

The cottage was situated behind Heitler's Texaco station on Broad St. It had originally been the property of Franklin and Emily Brodhead.

Later Harold and Josephine Courtney conducted a boarding house there for many years. Baron Falkenhagen later used it as a dude ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gehm, now of Marshalls Creek, were the last to own it before selling it to the Ronson Corporation.

Taproom Is Burglarized

THE FRIENDLY Inn at 324 Main St., Stroudsburg, was burglarized between 3 and 10 a.m. yesterday. Two inexpensive watches and approximately $10 in cash were taken.

Police Chief John B. Trothway said a window on the west side of the building was forced by a pinch bar to gain entry.

Clinic Director Dies Of Injuries

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—Injuries suffered in a two-car crash Sunday, yesterday proved fatal to Newton C. Allen, 57, director of a clinic in Cresson, Cambria County.

Allen, a resident of California, Pa., was director of the controversial Hoxsey Cancer Clinic at Portage from 1954 to 1957. The Hoxsey clinic was closed after a long court fight.

Allen's car collided head-on with one driven by Michael Hefferman, 18, of Carrolltown, Cambria County, about a mile west of Blairsville.

Hefferman is in fair condition in Latrobe Hospital. Allen's wife, Muriel, 59, suffered slight injuries.

NOW DESTROYED—This is the old Brodhead cottage in Delaware Water Gap as it looked at the beginning of the century. The structure was torn down and the debris burned yesterday morning. It had been used at times for a Dude Ranch, a boarding house, and a private residence. The building was wrecked by the Schlusser Co. of Scranton.

Guardsmen Held In Drowning

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Five Indiana national guardsmen were arrested yesterday for investigation of manslaughter in the drowning of their companion during a traditional dunking ceremony.

Witnesses said 34-year-old Walter Van Vickle, of Sharpesville, Ind., the father of four children, cried "I can't swim" as he was carried toward the St. Joseph River here Saturday night. The group hurled him in as a prank, then two of them and four other guardsmen jumped in to pull him out.

Van Vickle was swept away by the strong current and his body was recovered later in 12 feet of water.

Tshombe Named Head Of State

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — The Katanga Assembly elected Premier Moïse Tshombe head of state yesterday. Formal election was by unanimous vote in the absence of 21 members of the opposition Cartel party, which has boycotted the assembly. Tshombe's election as head of state is significant in that it probably clears the way for his right hand man, Godfroid Munongo, minister of the interior, to become premier of this rich, secessionist province. Tshombe now holds both posts. It is not yet known what added powers he gets as head of state.

Walter Notes Red Attack On U.S. Youth

IN AN ADDRESS to the Texas Department of the American Legion in Dallas, Texas recently, 15th Congressional District representative Francis E. Walter, Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, scored the communist's attack on American youth.

Walter represents Monroe, Pike, Carbon and Northampton counties in the House of Representatives. "Masquerading behind a facade of peace, the communists have brought to this planet total warfare, in which every weapon — military, economic, psychological, diplomatic and political — is employed," Walter said.

He noted as sobering the fact that the communists should gain such momentum in fifty years as to circle the globe. "What is incomprehensible," he said, "is that not withstanding their publicly announced program of world domination, and the plain, obvious record which they write in human blood, even now they continue to dupe those they would destroy."

Steel Output Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel production will climb slightly this week, the American Iron & Steel Institute said yesterday. Operations this week are scheduled at 54.6 per cent of capacity, calculated to turn out 1,556,000 tons. Last week mills operated at 53.9 per cent of capacity and produced 1,537,000 tons. A month ago output amounted to 1,476,000 tons a year ago, when there was a strike, to only 335,000 tons.

Red Propaganda Won't Deter Him

LONDON (AP) — Lord Home, in his first public declaration as Britain's new foreign secretary, said last night that no Russian propaganda will shake his confidence in the British-American alliance. The gentle-voiced peer told TV interviewers he would not be presumptuous enough to bring new ideas to the job he has just taken over, but that he has some clear ideas about it. "We may not always agree with the United States," he said, "but no Russian propaganda shall shake my belief in the alliance with America."

actions in leading student riots in this country and others, Walter quoted J. Edgar Hoover as saying that "The Communist success in San Francisco in May 1960 proves that it can happen here."

Desertions, Collaborations
Presenting the facts of desertions and collaboration during the Korean conflict, he said, "Ignorance lay behind much of this trouble. A great many servicemen were teenagers. At home they thought of politics as dry editorials. . . . dull as dishwater. They were unprepared to give the communists an argument."

Only a handful of communists are enough to foment trouble both here and abroad. A mere 3,000,000 hard core communists control 900,000,000 communist dominated peoples, according to Walter.

He ended his address by outlining a program of instruction of communism and its tactics in colleges and high schools across the country, "much as a criminologist studies crime to be able to combat it," he said.

Infants thru Pre-Teens

Even so, one girl had stage fright AFTER the fact.

"I didn't notice that mike in your hand when you asked me a question," she said, "and it's a darned good thing I didn't say what I had in mind." I'm not sure what she could have had in mind . . . but as I look back, I recall she was standing guard over two tables at once, trying to arrange merchandise; the breeze was blowing, and passersby were rooting through stacks of sale goods which threatened any minute to topple to the street. I guess truly it is a reason for thankfulness that she didn't say what was on her mind . . . if she had, we might have had a few anxious moments to compare with those recounted by Art Linkletter in his book, "People are Funny." (Incidentally, I just finished reading the new up-to-date paper back edition of this book, published a number of years ago, which traces most amusingly Mr. Linkletter's astoundingly successful career in radio and TV. Look for it on the racks at Wyckoff's).

I remember that at last year's Sidewalk Days I was introduced to a new beauty aid for women—Richard Hudnut's Lip Quick, the roll-on lipstick which was a bit slow in catching on, locally at least, and is now selling like a house afire. I also invested in a blue glass violin shaped bottle, and a miniature garden, which the Business and Professional Women were selling at their booth to raise money for Laurel Manor . . . some long play albums which Sears had marked way, way down . . . a glittery pair of earrings . . . and a few other items, some with purpose and some which were, frankly, based more upon the spirit of the occasion than upon actual need or desire. I had been skeptical . . . but like a careless sailor I was swept overboard, and carried along with the tide. I was not alone. The very same thing was happening all up and down the street. Why, there was one man selling colored telephones and apparently doing a rushing business. I have often wondered how many of his customers actually wanted a red telephone . . . or a blue one . . . or were, like myself, just being over-exuberant like the kid at the fair who eats too much cotton candy and drinks too many cokes. In any case, it was fun!

Sooo . . . if the weather is shiny and bright this morning, I'll be out once again, mike in hand, at quarter of ten. At 10:30 Sally Ferree with her mike in hand will also be on the streets. Dozens of store employees and volunteer workers for local organizations will also be out. In fact, EVERYONE will be out . . . there won't be anyone home listening to the radio! In front of Wyckoff's will be tables galore — one, I'm advised, will benefit the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Those who haven't a pet can at least contribute, or take out a membership; those who have can buy pet food and such. Inside the store will be other big values . . . back to school things, for instance, on our second floor. You know, even as I write this on a Tuesday morning, I'm getting all excited . . . all in the spirit of Sidewalk Daze!

Strouds Were Listed Old, Honorable English Family

(Third in a series of articles on how the Stroud family helped form Stroudsburg. Last Sunday Stroudsburg celebrated its 150th anniversary as a town).

By Robert Brown
THE STROUDS were an old and honorable English family who lived in the town of Stroud, beautifully situated on a small creek known as Stroudwater. The head of the family, William, had been knighted by James I for "distinguished service to King and country". Sir William however was a true lover of freedom and during the reign of Charles I became one of the champions of the rights of the people.

After the restoration of the monarchy under Charles II, Sir William's son also named William found it necessary to leave his native land.

In 1710 he crossed the Atlantic and settled in Amwell, N.J. It was here that Bernard Stroud the progenitor of the American Strouds was born. Bernard lost both of his parents at a very early age and was cared for by neighboring farmers.

At the age of 20 he married Kexiah Harker, daughter of one of his protectors. Bernard and Kexiah had 10 children, one of whom died in infancy and another, John, was killed in battle. There were four other sons and four daughters who survived.

Born In Jersey
Jacob Stroud was born in Amwell, N.J., Jan. 13, 1735. When Jacob grew old enough his father apprenticed him to learn farming to Nicholas Dupuy, proprietor of a large estate near Shawnee-on-Delaware. When he reached the age of 21, the French and Indian War broke out; he immediately enlisted as a private in the English Colonial army for a term of five years.

As a soldier he made a splendid record. At the battle of Quebec he was one of the three soldiers who carried the wounded General Wolfe off the battlefield.

General Praises Ground Soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The German general who commands all of NATO's land forces in Central Europe said yesterday that the new NATO strategy reaches beyond a mere static defense along the Rhine to operations deep into the "furthermost eastern reaches" of Central Europe.

Gen. Hans Speldel, who fought Allied forces in World War II as chief of the general staff of German army corps and group, came to Washington as a major speaker at the Association of the United States Army.

The 63-year-old German, who was arrested in 1944 as a suspect in the bomb plot against Adolf Hitler, emphasized a point dear to the U. S. Army—that it is the ground soldier who will be in on the final winning of any war.

and was with him when he died. He was also present at Fort William Henry when it was surrendered to the French General Montcalm under whose promise that the lives of the colonial soldiers would be spared.

As is well known, the Indians began a horrible massacre just as soon as the garrison had laid down their arms. Only by Stroud's great dexterity and strength did Jacob escape. When his term of enlistment had expired with the end of the war, Jacob returned to these parts with all his possessions which consisted of a farm wagon and two horses. Thus he prepared to face life.

Itinerant Teachers
In the time of Daniel Stroud teaching was done by itinerant teachers who went from place to place, hired a room and advertised for pupils. Under such a system it frequently happened that there were no schools available to which children could be sent for formal education. The quality of the teaching often left much to be desired.

Daniel Stroud was keenly aware of this condition and in association with John Stroud and James Hollinshead built the first school house in Stroudsburg in 1800. It was located on the hill just beyond the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

It was a log house without a floor but with a stone fire place at one end. The fire place made it quite luxurious as school houses went in those days. The first teacher was Mr. Curtis.

This building served the community until 1813 when agitation was begun for a new building and one nearer the center of population. Accordingly a committee headed by Daniel Stroud applied to the legislature for a charter of incorporation for an institution to be known as the Stroudsburg Academy.

The act was approved Mar. 28, 1814 and provided for an academy for the education of youth in the useful arts, sciences and literature. The act also provided for an appropriation of $400 if the building should be erected.

Subscription Started
Soon after the passing of the act a subscription was started by Daniel Stroud but interest was not great and he was unable to raise the necessary funds. Accordingly a new subscription was circulated by Mr. James Hollinshead to build a house of worship.

It further provided that the use of the building should be divided among those religious societies whose members shall have contributed toward its construction. I do not know whether they built a church or a school house, but they erected a building which was used by different religious bodies on Sundays and for school on week days. It was known as the Old Stone Academy and served until the Public School Act was passed by the Legislature.

The Old Stone Academy was located at 8th and Main St. on the rear of the property of the late Judge, Samuel E. Shull.

Anglers Reminded To Have Licenses While Fishing

THE Pennsylvania Fish Commission yesterday reminded fishermen that it is necessary at all times to have fishing license while fishing.

The Law Enforcement Division of the Commission in checking fishermen are finding many cases where licenses have been left at home, only to find on further routine checking that in some cases the fisherman did not have a license and of course was fined $25.

There have been cases where the warden gave these fishermen an opportunity to prove their statement by allowing a few days to produce the license. In some instances, it was found that a license was immediately procured but the angler had falsified the purchase date by predating it to make it appear that the license had been purchased prior to the time he was checked by the warden.

The Commission also pointed out that a fishing license agent found guilty of predating a license is not only subject to a fine, but also the loss of his license agency.

GOP Appoints Finance Head

HARRISBURG (AP)—Phillip T. Sharples, Ardmore, yesterday was named Pennsylvania Republican finance chairman by State Chairman George I. Bloom.

Sharples succeeds Col. Willard F. Rockwell, Pittsburgh industrialist, who is stepping down from the post he held for 18 months. He had asked not to be reappointed and urged the naming of Sharples, Bloom said.

Sharples is founder and chairman of the board of the Sharples Corp. He served as GOP finance chairman between 1950 and 1954. He has been a member of the committee for 10 years. Rockwell will continue to serve with the committee as vice chairman.

In stepping down as finance chairman, Rockwell took over the chairmanships of the GOP Century Club and the Republican's Pennsylvania Almanac — Both fund-raising activities of the party.

Kinder Blasts 65 In Philadelphia Golf

Seven-Under Par Score Tops Field Of 64 Pros

SAM KINDER fired a blistering seven-under par 65 Wednesday to win low money in a pro-president golf tournament at White Marsh C. C., Philadelphia.

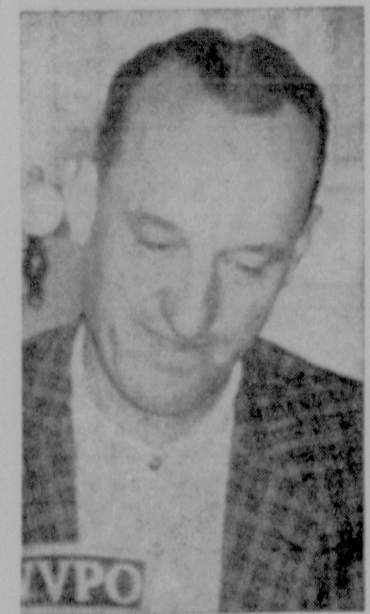

The Glen Brook Country Club professional easily outdistanced a field of 64 pros.

It was the first win of the year in the Philadelphia Section of the Professional Golfers Assn. for the 43-year-old Kinder, who has captured four of the five Pocono PGA events.

Kinder's 65 was only a stroke off the course record for the 6,700-yard layout.

The former New Jersey pro opened his round brilliantly but closed spectacularly.

He birdied two of the first three holes and closed with birds on five of the last six holes, canning a 15-foot downhill putt on the 18th for his last birdie.

The Pirates' 12-hit attack was sparked by Don Hoak, who tripled and doubled; Smokey Burgess, who singled twice and doubled; and Dick Groat, who batted three singles.

Seasons Highlight Water Show At E-Burg Pool

"SEASONS" served as the theme of the East Stroudsburg Playground Pool annual water show last night.

The show was co-sponsored by the pool and playground personnel and the Lions Club of the Stroudsburgs.

Next was a diving exhibition done by Billy Staples, Mary Lou Hunt, LeRoy Bishop, Linda Vogt, Bobby Hilliard, and Jimmy Bishop.

The aquatic team performed to "Autumn Leaves" representing the Fall season.

Awards Given

The Lions Club gave awards for accomplishment in swimming, to Allen Altemose, Judy Bush and Patricia Treble. They then gave playground awards to Roy Rarick, Victor Gromadin and Mary Dittus. Pat Alberts received an award for her part in directing the show.

Wolslayer, lifeguards at the pool and Ronnie Fish. The directors of the show were Miss Pat Alberts and Miss Jane Slutter. It was announced by Debbie Peeney.

A Baugh, Isbell, Hirsch Or Graham Could Help Stars

By JOE MOONSHIL Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—Sammy Baugh, Cecil Isbell, Otto Graham, Elroy Hirsch.

Those names have a familiar ring in this All-Star football week when a squad of last year's college stars challenge the supremacy of the professional champion Baltimore Colts in Soldier Field Friday night.

Although the professional champions hold a decided edge in the series inaugurated in 1934, men like Baugh, Isbell, Graham, Hirsch and so on were instrumental in the eight victories scored by the All-Stars. The professionals have won 16; two games ended in ties.

Past performances of those All-Stars who helped their teams triumph is one reason the collegians must be given a chance to defeat Baltimore despite the fact the Colts are 18 points favorites.

With minor injuries all mended, the All-Stars will be in good physical shape for the Colts.

Yanks Slam Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A two-hit performance by three New York pitchers and a strong finish at the plate swept the first-place Yankees to a 6-0 victory over the White Sox Wednesday before the largest weekday crowd in Comiskey Park history, 48,109.

The defeat dropped the Sox from a second place tie with Baltimore into third place. The Orioles beat Detroit 4-2.

The Yanks thus took the rubber game of a three-game series which packed 144,840 into Sox Park.

Gets Blister
Both Sox hits, Luis Aparicio's single in the third and Minnie Minoso's double in the fifth, came off starter Art Ditmar, who had to retire because of a finger blister as the Sox threatened in the seventh.

El Grba issued a walk to the only batter he faced and Bobby Shantz finished for the Yanks, striking out the side in the ninth.

Bill Skowron's 21st homer of the season in the second inning was the only Yankee hit off starter Herb Score until the Sox southpaw weakened in the eighth for two runs and three hits, including a two-run single by Tony Kubek.

Add Runs
In a six-hit Yankee ninth, including a two-run single by pinchhitter Yogi Berra, Kubek drove across a run with a sacrifice fly for his third RBI of the game.

Victim of the Yankee ninth-inning attack was Turk Lown.

CHICAGO (AP) — Sharp-punching Eddie Perkins, of Chicago, eager to get a shot at Joe Brown's lightweight title, Wednesday night pounded out a seventh round technical knockout over Joey Lopes.

Referee Joey White stopped it at 1:40 after the 23-year-old Perkins made the No. 4 lightweight contender by the National Boxing Assn., hammered the bloodied Lopes at will on the ropes.

Mario Stompinato, chief second of the 29-year-old Lopes, once ranked No. 1 in the division, waved his hands at ringside as if signaling that his fighter had had enough in the scheduled 10 rounder televised from Chicago Stadium.

Chamberlain Signs; May Be Highest Paid Athlete

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Will Chamberlain, bowing to what he described as the wishes of his fans and his race, Wednesday changed his mind about quitting the National Basketball Assn. and signed a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Warriors to make him the highest salaried athlete in sports.

Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Warriors, said he enticed Chamberlain from his last March retirement with a contract, including fringe benefits, that "we feel makes him the highest paid athlete in sports today."

Chamberlain, 7 foot, 1 inch Negro who reportedly earned in excess of $60,000 from the Warriors last year, explained his decision to play again in the NBA this way:

Bigger Decision
"My original decision to quit the NBA was mine alone. However, after discussing the matter with leaders of my race, friends and my family, I realized that it was a bigger decision than mine alone. Everyone felt it would be better for me and I could do more good for my race if I played rather than if I retired."

Chamberlain last March announced he was quitting because he was tired of being roughed up by opposing players.

Chamberlain, recently back from Europe where he toured with the Harlem Globetrotters, said that, "Even in Europe . . . I was surprised by the number of people who urged me to continue."

In order for Chamberlain to be the highest paid athlete in sport this year, his salary would have to be more than the $85,000 reportedly earned by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, highest paid player in major league baseball. Ted Williams, who is said to receive a base pay of $65,000, has a bonus arrangement that could net him more than $85,000. Williams reportedly received $125,000 in 1956, the highest ever in major league baseball.

Chamberlain with his famous "dunk" shot, last year shattered almost every NBA record in the book.

Brandt hit a two-run homer and Nicholson and Gentile added solo blasts as the red-hot Orioles captured their fifth in a row, their 14th in their last 18.

The victory enabled them to stay a game and a half behind the league leading New York Yankees.

Hoyt Wilhelm's superb relief pitching saved Jerry Walker's first victory since June 17. Wilhelm came on in the seventh after Norm Cash pulled Detroit within one run with his 12th homer with a mate aboard.

Wilhelm pitched hitless ball and Gentile gave him a two-run lead in the eighth with his 15th home run. Brandt connected in the third and Nicholson in the fourth against starter Pete Burnside. Gentile's home run was hit off Phil Regan, third of four Detroit pitchers.

Bill Veeck Protests Rain Call

CHICAGO (AP) — President Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday formally protested by telegram to American League President Joe Cronin what he termed was the premature calling off of Tuesday night's New York Yankees-White Sox game because of rain after eight innings of play.

Veeck said Chief Umpire Ed Hurley admitted to him that the rain night was not as heavy as on May 21 when the Yankee-White Sox game was halted three times.

The Yankees, scoring three runs in the eighth, won 7-4. The game was called after a 31-minute wait, one more than the minimum.

Veeck contended the umpires called the game without examining the playing field or giving the ground crew a chance to try putting it in shape.

Employment Security's 25th Year

NEARLY $2½ Billion dollars has been paid to Pennsylvania jobless since the State's Unemployment Compensation Law was enacted in December, 1936. John Dougherty, manager of the Stroudsburg office of the Bureau of Employment Security, said yesterday.

Dougherty's announcement came as the Bureau of Employment Security was preparing to observe the 25th Anniversary of the Social Security Act during the week of August 14, 1960.

On August 1, 1960, Gov. David L. Lawrence signed a proclamation calling for the observance of this week.

Open House

Dougherty said that his office would celebrate the anniversary by holding an Open House on Tuesday, August 16, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Local Employment office at 408 Main St.

Dougherty said that this $2½ billion dollars in compensation checks includes all payments between February 1938, when the first check was issued, and March 1960, the latest month for which complete payment figures are available.

The two-year period between the enactment of the state law and the first payment was used to build up the State's unemployment fund, from which benefits are paid. The fund, totaling approximately $182 million as of last month is financed through a tax on employer payrolls.

Dougherty said that contributions to the fund over the period in which unemployment taxes have been paid totaled 2.3 billion dollars. He added that during this time the fund had earned $189,925,253 in interest by the Federal Government, which, by law, has custody of the fund.

Meanwhile, local Employment Officer Manager Dougherty said that Stroudsburg workers received $963,000 in Unemployment Compensation during the 12 months ending 12-31-59.

Monroe and Pike County merchants have benefited by these temporary payments to jobless workers who were able to pay their bills with this continued income. The benefit checks also helped keep the area's economy on an even keel, Dougherty pointed out.

"Every new industry, every plant shutdown, every seasonal layoff or job recall, affects the community and the employment service operations alike," Dougherty said.

Expresses Appreciation

He expressed the appreciation of his local Employment Service staff for the cooperation of area employers and organizations, and stated that he and his staff were resolved to continue all possible efforts to advance the economic growth of the Community.

He said that in the past year the local employment service office took about 2,100 applications for jobs, filled 2,510 non-agricultural jobs, took 4,980 initial claims for Unemployment Compensation, and counseled an additional 265 workers.

Dougherty said his office now has unfilled orders from area employers for machinists, turret lathe operators, clerk-typists, room clerks, waiters, waitresses, cooks, chambermaids.

In addition, he said, his office will receive requests from many of the other 1,800 Employment Service offices around the country for hard-to-find workers with particular skills.

Stroudsburg Rotary To Meet Today

STROUDSBURG Rotary Club will hold its weekly meeting today in the East Stroudsburg State College dining room, instead of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Secretary S. Clair Smith reported yesterday.

After the luncheon, which starts at 12:10 p. m., the club will make the first presentation of its newly instituted annual scholarship to a student at the college.

Litts Chairman

John C. Litts is chairman of the scholarship committee. Alex Benninger will preside at the meeting.

Bishop Corson Is Elected

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Methodist Bishop Fred Pierce Corson in a letter to his office here said he had been elected president-designate of the World Methodist Council at the denomination's meeting in Zurich, Switzerland.

Bishop Corson said he would take office at a meeting of the World Council in Oslo a year from now. As head of the council, he will be the leader of 40-million Methodists in more than 70 countries.

The 64-year-old bishop will succeed Dr. Harold Roberts, principal of Richmond Theological College of the University of London. The term of office generally is four or five years.

Best Drivers In Britain Are Women

LONDON (AP)—The following information may come as a shock to half the population: A British insurance company survey has shown women are safer drivers than men.

The company announced yesterday it is cutting liability premiums for women drivers 10 per cent.

Announcing this decision, insurance broker Herbert Sheppard, a man, stated: "Women have fewer accidents than men and make fewer claims. They are less inclined to take chances, they drive more slowly and are less likely to drink intoxicants during a journey."

And he said women have less difficulty than men in obtaining witnesses after an accident.

Sheppard said his firm reached these conclusions after a survey of driving records and accident claims. By comparison, he said, "men may have things on their minds which will detract from their driving concentration."

But a male official of Britain's Automobile Assn. commented: "There are good and bad women drivers, but fewer of them on the road at any one time—that is why the chance of their being involved in claims is less."

Exotic Dancer Must Pay For Snake

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Magistrate Ralph M. Dennis said yesterday he couldn't let exotic dancer Zolita wiggle out of an unpaid balance for a snake.

Henry Zahle, president of a pet shop firm, told Dennis the 26-year-old performer and her manager, Carl Weisgerber, 29, had paid $100 for a boa constrictor and still owed $24.95.

Weisgerber said the snake was sick and he asked Zolita to show the court what a healthy snake looked like. She reached into a wicker basket and produced a 10½-foot long red-tailed boa constrictor she uses in her act.

Produce Certificate
Then Weisgerber produced a certificate from a veterinarian, saying the snake Zahle sold them died last February of mouth rot. Zahle told Dennis he doesn't guarantee boa constrictor snakes he sells or supply life insurance policies with them.

Dennis told Zolita to put the healthy snake back in the basket and then told Weisgerber to pay Zahle the $24.95 and the court $5.46 costs.

Alaskans Cast Votes For New Capital Site

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—An estimated 35,000 Alaskan voters sprinkled over an area one-fifth the size of the contiguous United States, voted yesterday on one of the most emotional issues ever to face them.

On their primary ballot was an initiative calling for relocation of the capital from Juneau to a yet-to-be-selected site in the area dominated by Alaska's largest city, Anchorage.

Under the terms of the initiative, Gov. William E. Egan would be empowered to name a five-man committee to select a capital site. The capital would be moved by Jan. 1, 1965.

Also on the ballot were nomination races for Sen. E. L. Bartlett's seat in the U.S. Senate and for Rep. Ralph J. Rivers' seat in the House. Both are Democrats.

Bartlett was unopposed for his party's nomination. Lawrence Brayton, a Fairbanks surveyor, and Lee L. McKinley, a Palmer dentist, sought the Republican nomination.

Rivers faced David N. Boyer, a Kenai hotel owner, on the Democratic side. On the Republican side it was William C. Haggard, a Sitka lawyer; R. L. Rettig, an Anchorage accountant; and Jack Ryan, a Fairbanks newspaperman.

Proponents of the capital initiative claimed that Juneau, in the southeast panhandle, was too far removed from the center of state population. They also claimed that weather frequently choked off transportation in and out of the capital.

U. S. Will Launch '10-Story' Sphere

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States tried yesterday to launch a mammoth balloon communications satellite, tall as a 10-story building, into orbit 1,444 miles above the earth.

The 100-foot balloon, called Echo I, is designed to determine the feasibility of using several satellites as relay stations for transmission of radio, television and telephone communications.

The great sphere, weighing only 137.4 pounds, will be carried aloft in collapsed form in the nose of a Thor-Delta rocket. If it inflates in space and achieves orbit, ground stations will try to bounce signals and voice messages off its highly polished surface.

AMONG popular singers, the man of the year — as far as America's teen-agers are concerned — is silver-tongued Johnny Mathis.

More than 1,000 young people liar to mom and dad as to the teen-agers — turned up when we asked our interviewees to name their favorite recording of all time and the best recording of all time.

On one hand, the theme song from "Summer Place" was picked by 7 per cent as their all

Many Splendorous Thing," "In the Still of the Night," "Stardust," "Rhapsody in Blue" and "My Prayer."

The best recording of all times, according to the voters, are "Stardust," "Love is a Many Splendorous Thing," "White Christmas," "Summer Place," "In the Still of

Johnny Mathis

made this clear in our annual summer favorite singer poll.

Mathis' rise to the top — he was the first choice of 23 per cent of those queried — put Ricky Nelson, last year's favorite, right out of the running. Nelson ended up among the also rans.

But last year's favorite female recording star, Connie Francis, remained as queen and surpassed her vote pull of the previous poll by a large margin. Forty-one per cent of the teeners picked her as favorite, compared with 16 per cent last year.

Typical of the comments about Mathis was the statement by Joan Jebedinsky, 17, of Miami Beach, Fla., who said: "He has a trained mellow voice, which is a welcome change from the usual rock and roll voice."

As for Connie Francis, remarks made about her were along the lines of the comment by Charlotte Laney, 17, of Griffin, Ga., who said "I like her voice, her beat and the songs she sings."

Both Mathis and Francis were also named as top choices for best recording stars. Mathis with a 24 per cent plurality and Connie once more with 41 per cent.

Bobby Darin a Comer

Bobby Darin, Frankie Avalon, Paul Anka, Frank Sinatra, Elvis Presley and Pat Boone finished in that order behind Mathis in the voting for favorite recording male singer. But their positions were shifted in the selection of "best male" with Sinatra just behind Mathis, followed by Darin and then Perry Como.

Doris Day was second as the favorite female recording star, with Annette Funicello, Connie Stevens, Dinah Shore and Peggy Lee trailing behind. In naming the best of female singers, the top choices after Connie Francis were Doris Day, Dinah Shore, Ella Fitzgerald and Connie Stevens.

Another repeater from last year's survey was the Kingston Trio which had a 40 per cent majority in the selections as favorite male recording groups. The trio also was first as the best group with a 26 per cent majority.

The Kingston Trio, said Patricia Privitera, 17, of Hartford, Conn., has "fine tone blendings, and expressions with rhythm."

The McGuire Sisters topped the list as both favorite and best female recording group. The girls were chosen as best by 54 per cent of the teeners and named as favorites by 45 per cent, winning top rank from fans who look upon them as does Nancy MacGillivray, 18, of Tampa, Fla. "They're lively and gay," says Nancy, "and they are always in good taste."

There was a sizable group (16 per cent) which bluntly said it did not care for female singing groups. As Sheila Syring, 16, of Eugene, Ore., said, "They're usually too too, or else too bubbling and mushy. They don't just stand and sing the song without hamming up the song and themselves."

The Platters repeated as favorites (26 per cent) and the best (29 per cent) in the voting for mixed recording groups.

Of Africans

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Thousands of Cape Town citizens are walking the streets with a price on their heads. They are liable to a 1,000 pounds—$2,800—fine, or five years imprisonment, or both, for possessing banned books.

Lists of banned books are published from time to time in the government gazette in Pretoria. Many of these books have been on sale for months, or years, before the government got around to discovering that they are unfit for South Africans to read.

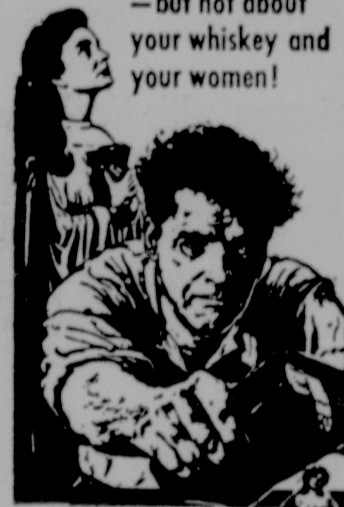

The usual reason for banning a book is that it is considered immoral.

Plants Must Be Pruned To Desired Size

By George Abraham

ALL plants must grow up. Some are taller than others and to keep them dwarfed they must be pruned to the size you want them. Putting evergreens in a foundation planting and expecting them to remain at a certain height is not possible unless you restrict their growth.

Pruning is a dwarfing process, and with nearly all evergreens this can be done almost any time of the year. Pinex shouldn't be pruned after July, although if you have some in your landscaping planting which have overgrown, I wouldn't hesitate to clip them if it meant enhancing their beauty now.

Cutting tops out of all spruces and other evergreens does a lot to restrict late summer growth to young side shoots, and you'll have a more compact tree.

Other Ways

There are other ways to dwarf or restrict growth besides summer pruning of sides and tops. Pruning the root system also tends to restrict top growth on most plants. To root prune you insert a deep spade into the soil at a foot to 18 inches from the trunk or plant base of a young shrub, and this is best done three or four years after planting. Young roots can be cut easily and to a depth of eight to 12 inches.

Many authorities agree that root pruning is not used by gardeners as much as it might be for control of plant growth. You try it on your plants and see if it doesn't help keep your plants down where they belong. Some chemicals can be used to reduce growth, and Maleic hydrazide is one.

One of the simplest things you can do is to select the right plant for a right location in the first place, and to realize that even dwarf plants grow each year. Slight pruning for them is important too.

Good Flower

If you want a real good cut flower, try the new daisy, "Gloriosa," a perennial that thrives under adverse weather conditions as do the wild Brown-eyed Susans. Gloriosa Daisy was bred from these native flowers. In my garden, the blooms are five to seven inches across, are yellow, mahogany and some bi-colors of orange and gold, mahogany and bronze, and gold, all with chocolate-brown centers. Plants bloom from early summer until frost. I started plants from seed this spring and find they flower the first season. A packet of seed cost only 25 cents, and it's given me many dollars worth of enjoyment so far. One feature about the flowers is they hold up beautifully in vase arrangements. Some last for two weeks. If you have a poor soil and want to grow an easy perennial, try the Gloriosa Daisy. If your seedman does not handle seed, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I'll be glad to help you locate seed nearest you.

Question Box

Question of the week: P. K. of Marshalls Creek: "I sowed seeds of 'Bells of Ireland' for the first time this year and the plants grew fine. No one in my neighborhood has ever seen this odd plant. The package said that Bells of Ireland would be beautiful for dried winter bouquets, but no information is given. How do you prepare it?"

Bells of Ireland (Moluccella leavis) is an interesting annual well adapted to drying for winter bouquets. The shells of green are so closely spaced around the stems there's little room for leaves. There are two ways to dry this old-fashioned flower: (1) Air-drying, by hanging the stalks upside down in a garage. To do this you cut stalks after the insignificant white flowers (called "clappers") have shed and the green bracts (the "bells") have started to fade.

Some gardeners snip off all leaves for a better display of the bells. Others take the trouble to secure the bells to the stalk by adding a speck of glue before drying. (2) Use borax-sand treatment. To dry the young, green stalks with bells and white flowers (or clappers) in place, mix up a batch of material, 2/3 household borax and 1/3 washed sand. Place some in a shoe box, then add the stalks, and sprinkle on the sand-borax mixture and allow it to work for four or five days. This works for drying many other flowers.

W. L. of Stroudsburg: "I'm interested in growing my summer-blooming snapdragons right on for another year. How is this done?"

Snapdragons are annuals and should not be treated as perennials. However, they sometimes live over in mild winters, or if given protection. Since the plants are so easily started anew from seed, I would rather see you set out new ones each year. (Please turn to page twenty-two)

Mother Returns, Children Slain

WEAVERVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A young mother, who left home two weeks ago for safety, returned yesterday from Virginia—to the bodies of her three children, her mother and her husband.

All died at the hands of her husband.

The mass slaying at a mountain home about six miles north of here last night followed years of domestic difficulty for Mr. and Mrs. Wayne R. Franks.

No Comment—Callas

ROME (AP) — Opera soprano Maria Callas arrived yesterday by plane, refusing to comment on Italian newspaper reports that her engagement to Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis may be announced soon.

Miss Callas is legally separated — but not divorced — from her Italian husband, Gianbattista Meneghini. She came here from the French Riviera.

Polio Victim Gives Birth To Baby Girl

NEW YORK (AP) — A polio-paralyzed mother bore a 6-pound, 14 ounce baby yesterday during a precision-timed respite from an iron lung at Bellevue Hospital. Both reportedly were doing well, with the mother restored to the lung after the birth.

Ingeborg Cully, 34, paralyzed from the neck down, was the first iron lung patient in Bellevue's history to bear a child.

"I am very happy that it was a little girl," Mrs. Cully told her husband, Army Sgt. John Cully.

Mrs. Cully was out of her iron lung only about 1 1/2 hours.

Mrs. Cully has a girl, 10, and a boy, 4. The latter was born the day after the mother was stricken with polio in 1956.

Khrushchev May Come To U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev said yesterday that he would like to represent the Soviet Union at the United Nations General Assembly session opening in New York Sept. 20.

He said he would consider it a great honor to be there for discussion of the disarmament question, but that the Soviet government had not yet discussed the composition of its delegation.

"If Khrushchev decided to attend the session, he would be in the United States at the height of the American presidential campaign. He also would be in a position to accept invitations readily to Latin American countries, including Cuba, now ruled by an anti-United States, pro-Moscow government."
